GILBERT AND SULLIVAN. By DR. FRANK CRANE. For creative genius and for sheer craftsmanship, in the way of entertainment, you cannot beat Gilbert and

And I make bold to say that no opera composed by anybody, not the old-fashioned Verdi and Rossini nor the new-fashioned Puccini or Mascagni, the grandiose Wagner or the eccentric Debussy, can give me the genuine pleasure I get from a performance of (their comic opera)

The field of musical comedy is prolific. Funny shows with music-swarm Broadway and spread over the country. It is curious that not one single one of them raises it's head far enough out of the wave of mediocrity to get within hailing distance of Gilbert and Sullivan.

For delicacy of touch, for exquisiteness of workman-ship, for freshness and originality of conception, no musical work of the last thirty years, no modern novelty, slapstick or subtlety, can compare with them.
